a 1989 masterpiece by john holdi

a real masterpiece of contemporary art, has been created in 1989 AD by john holdi in an unique technique, combining highlighter, pencil and crayon on pink typewriter paper

My dear Friends of the History of Art!

Just recently a long missing piece of finest contemporary artwork has been retrieved in Canada.

By courtesy of the Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto we are able to present you a print of this famous painting on the backside of this invitation-leaflet, to illustrate the tremendous importance of this renowned piece of art.

This work, created in 1989 by popular artist John Holdi, marked an important milestone in painting.

Not only its unique technique combining highlighter, pencil and crayon on pink typewriter paper but also the marvelous lack of any creativity and endeavour in its creation are still influencing the worldwide arts scene to this day.

To celebrate the recovery of this masterpiece, we have the honour to invite you officially and personally to a reception taking place at the Holdiplanet National Museum and a seminar held by our curator the famous art historian Miss Sophie!

Don't miss this opportunity. The Artist will be present in person at this event.

Cheerioooh Miss Sophie!!!
